

BELLWETHER

134 Tenth Avenue
New York, New York 10011
212.929.5959
www.bellwethergallery.com

Sunday, July 6, 2008

By Laura Vogel

← Seeing fallen stars

Bellwether Gallery, 134 Tenth Ave.; (212) 929-5959

Brilliant young curator Becky Smith is known for spotting true young talent in this overcrowded city of wannabes. Her latest group show, "If Love Could Have Saved You, You Would Have Lived Forever," is a must-see. If you only have time for a brief visit, check out fierce partners/collaborators Marc Swanson and Joe Mama-Nitzberg's haunting photography first. The sumptuously shot funeral floral arrangements (made by the artists for punk icons like Darby Crash and American messes like Anna Nicole Smith) explore our love of dead celebs.